

Crestmead State School is hosting Kagan Cooperative Learning – 1st, 2nd September

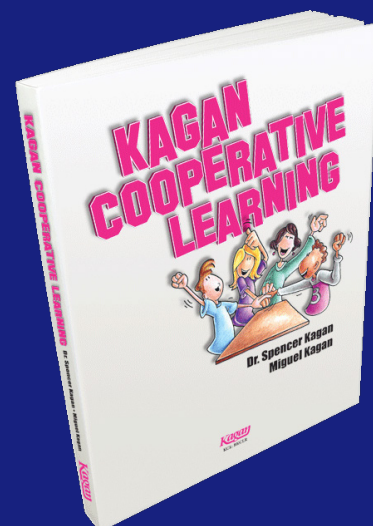

Kagan Cooperative Learning

Kagan Cooperative Learning transforms classrooms into vibrant, inclusive communities where every student is actively engaged. Through simple, research based structures, teachers create rich opportunities for collaboration, critical thinking, and meaningful participation. Students don't just learn from the teacher—they learn with and from each other.

Why Kagan Works

- Boosts academic achievement through structured interaction and accountable talk
- Increases engagement by ensuring every student participates, not just the confident few
- Builds social emotional skills such as teamwork, empathy, and communication
- Creates equitable classrooms where all learners have access to meaningful learning time
- Strengthens classroom culture with predictable routines that reduce off task behaviour
- Supports diverse learners through built in scaffolds and multiple ways to show understanding
- Enhances teacher clarity with easy to-implement structures that maximise instructional time

Kagan isn't just a strategy—it's a powerful shift toward highly engaging, student centred learning that sticks.
